

Interesting New Motorcycle Blogger

With 1000's of motorcycle news and blog sites out there, it's of no use to point one out anymore. There are just too many. But here's a new one that is interesting and different. Most blog sites are about what's going on in the motorcycle world, or personal blogs - about motorcycle rides taken or new motorcycle bought. Some have specialized in a special part of the motorcycle world.

The web site I noticed is of the latter category; a specialized point of view of the motorcycle world.

It's the Biker's Guide To Business and it deals with business and motorcycles. So rather unique. Entrepreneurs and motorcycles ...

hmmmm.

Recent topics include:

- Why you should not start a business part-time
- Why Top Entrepreneurs Ride Motorcycles
- Five Reasons Entrepreneurs Should Own a Motorcycle
- The Biker's Guide to Delegation

Interesting and not exactly topics you'd expect on a motorcycle site, but there you go, it just shows you how our world is integrated. The author, Dwain Deville is a business coach to CEOs and a passionate motorcycle rider. He has published a book called The Biker's Guide to Business: When Business and Life Meet at the Crossroads, and has based his web on it.
